In Touch with Sileby and The Wolds

Sileby and The Wolds Division

Richard Shepherd has lived in the area for most of his adult life. He is married to Jacqueline, and their two sons attended County schools. Richard was a teacher and is now retired.

Richard knows the area well, keeping closely in touch with local Parish Councils and being on hand to respond to residents' concerns. He has been County Councillor for the Division since 2005 and as well as being your local representative he is currently a County Council Scrutiny Commissioner. He also serves on Charnwood Borough Council and is a school governor.

Richard Shepherd's priorities are:

- Helping our communities to thrive and maintain their own spirit and identity
- Advising and assisting residents concerning issues they have raised
- Backing investment in super-fast broadband
- Working to sustain and develop local services
- Campaigning for road safety

Richard says:

"I want to be your Councillor because I want to continue to help the Sileby and The Wolds Division benefit from a Council which is performing well and planning for the future.

I believe village life is important. I want to work with others to take care of our environment, look after our community safety, and promote prosperity.

The Conservative Administration in Leicestershire has an excellent record of achievements and has set out an ambition for the next four years in which we can share."
